Excerpt: .has proposed a three component liner for use at the solid waste disposal site. The liner would have a layer of zeolite between two layers of bentonite. Upon final reclamation, a bentonite cap would be place over the solid waste site. Top soil would be replaced, grasses would be introduced; and the land would be returned to grazing. The Tribe hopes that this liner will be successful and that a large market for bentonite will develop as a result. A bentonite-zeolite-bentonite liner might also be used by industry for fossil fuel refining or for mining waste water treatment. We are currently analyzing the bentonite deposits to determine suitability for use as liner material. Testing includes: defining the Atterberg Limits; determining: Specific Gravity, the Moisture Density Curve and the Toxic Contamination Leak Procedure (inherent contaminants). SEWAGE TREATMENT FACILITIES Leaking sewage from inadequate sewerage treatment facilities is creating...
