Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Reports of Cases, Vol. 15: Adjudged in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; With a General Index, and Table of Cases It appeared on the record, that the plaintiff prayed a writ of retorno habendo, which had been issued. Penrose, for the plaintiff in error. 1. The description is too vague. A lot of sundries means a portion. He has got a judgment for a portion. He can have return only of what he has judgment for. It is is not certain even to a general intent. 1 Chitty Pl. 237. Certainty, to a general intent, is that which makes the matter certain without recurring to possible facts, which do not appear. Here there is no certainty, without such recurrence. 2 Wheat. Selwyn, 914, - divers goods and chattels, insufficient. 2. As to assessing the damages, at the amount of the plaintiff s claim. Here the value of the property was submitted, as the standard; but this was to be estimated by a fictitious standard. Penrod v. Mitchell, (S Serg. Rawle, 522, ) is precisely this...
